Both McGill Debating Teams Defeat Osgoode Hall

Judges Give 2-1 Decision To Berbrier and Oliver; Archer, Patterson Win 3-0

Closed Shop Is Considered Beneficial

McGill added another triumph to its debating laurels yesterday when debaters Archer and Patterson received a 3-0 decision in Toronto, while Berbrier and Oliver won by a 2-1 count in Montreal, defeating Toronto's Osgoode Hall.

At Montreal the McGill team of Boris Berbrier and Michael Oliver, debating the affirmative of the resolution: "Resolved that Compulsory union membership—the closed shop—is for the welfare of the community" defeated Richard Barber and Norman Rogers of Osgoode Hall, the Law School of the University of Toronto. Judges The Rev. Dean Kenneth Evans, Mr. O. B. Rexford and Mr. D. A. Chisholm gave a 2-1 decision to McGill. Chairman of the meeting was Mr. Lyle Benson.

FOR EQUAL BENEFITS

In opening the debate for the affirmative, Boris Berbrier first welcomed the Toronto team on behalf of the McGill Debating Society.

He then went on to say that open shop policy was the employers' attempt to break the power of the union and that closed shop policy was essential for equal benefit, on the part of all employees. Without this, he said, the union would soon cease to represent the opinions and wishes of the workers. He cited other attempts made by the employer to break the union, by blacklisting union members and organizers and labour spies.

NOT DEMOCRATIC

Richard Barber, the first speaker on the negative side, stated that in his opinion the closed shop policy showed the failure of union organizers in that they must resort to force and that the compulsion involved in the closed shop policy was undemocratic in that minority rights were disregarded. Some curtailment of union activity was desirable, he stated and for this reason the closed shop was necessary.

"REAL SECURITY"

Michael Oliver, second speaker for the affirmative, stated that the closed shop was the only way toward union security, that the open shop led to suspicion between employer and employee and all workers should have to belong to the union because they must share in the responsibilities and not only the rights of democracy. Furthermore, he charged, employers not under closed shop agreement were free to carry on discriminating practices in employment. "A closed shop," he stated, means real security—to build and expand.

NO FREEDOM

In closing the debate for the negative, Norman Rogers reiterated that the power of the unions would only increase through a closed shop policy. He said that the worker has no choice in a closed shop and that he cannot object to union policy. This therefore constitutes a breach of essential freedom.

Yesterday morning in Toronto the McGill debating team of William Archer and Jim Patterson was awarded an unanimous decision by the three judges in their contention that the closed shop is not of advantage to the community as a whole.

Alex Richmond and Sid Palkin, debating for Osgoode Hall, were the speakers for the affirmative, bringing forth the general argument that without a closed shop the whole labor movement would be nullified and that all gains so far would be wasted. The McGill men maintained that any group that perpetuates itself must of necessity be bad for the community, and that a closed shop is such a group.

The Band Plays On!

Red and White Band to Welcome New Bandsmen Tuesday Night

(This is the last of a series of articles prepared by the University Band executive intended to enlighten the student body on the present condition of the McGill Band.)

New members are to be officially introduced to the ranks of the University Band on Tuesday, November 26, at 8.00 p.m. sharp, in the Union Ballroom. All enthusiasts are asked to be on time so that arrangements can be made for their music instruments and uniforms.

A registration booth will be opened today in the Union lobby. New bandsmen can register there from 12.30 until 2.00 p.m., and from 4.30 until 6.00 p.m.

Musicians who own instruments are asked to bring them to the rehearsal, so that needy members can be served adequately.

Bandmaster Black will start the practice with a few warm-up marches, and then will proceed with the main program, which consists of light overtures and waltzes. Included in these will be some new arrangements of McGill songs, and possibly other tunes to be officially incorporated as McGill songs.

Regular, and prospective members are reminded that due to circumstances beyond our control, (The Engineering Banquet) the next rehearsal must commence at 8.00 p.m. instead of the usual 7.30 p.m. music-time. Bandsmen are asked to make this special sacrifice in order to insure that this first open house be a grand success!

Interesting news has been received by the band executive. After many years of playing from the Forum's rush-end, the band finally has the privilege of playing from, and viewing the hockey games from exclusive, first class seats.

We hope that the student body has derived considerable information about Band life from these articles. With this in mind, we feel that a new era of musical successes is in store for the present and future Red and White Bands.

Gala Athletics Night Is Planned Dance to Follow Sports Program

Indoor sports are coming into their own with the announcement that a gala Athletics Night is being planned for Saturday, December 7th, in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial gymnasium.

Feature attraction of the evening will be a basketball game between the McGill squad, now taking shape under the capable hands of coach Lew Davies, and a top flight American team, yet to be announced. Gymnasts will swing on the bars and badminton players will make the feathers fly during the intermission.

Downstairs, squashmen and boxers will be rocking the walls with their solid swings. In all the events it is McGill Senior teams that will be in competition, against either teams of the Canadian Intercollegiate Union, teams of the Ivy League or strong local clubs. Guests at the Athletics Night will be able to wander from gym to gym to view the sports of their choice.

To round off the evening and enable the spectators to take some exercise, there will be dancing to smooth music.

Ed Ballon, manager of the Athletics Nights, has lined up a staff of sport enthusiasts, who are now hard at work designing decorations, drawing posters and planning an evening such as the gym has never seen before.

The opening whistle will sound at 8 p.m. and the sports will continue until approximately 9.30 when the floor will be cleared, the lights dimmed and sweet music will waft through the hall.

Five Athletics Nights are planned for the current college year, all on a like scale, and the organizers of these events hope that by this means they will afford the students of the university an opportunity to see some of their teams in action and to build a strong campus spirit that is essential if we hope to produce winners.

Student tickets will cost 75 cents each and will go on sale shortly, and there will be room for everybody. Watch the Daily for further

Rink-Auditorium Campaign Will Start Dec. 2 With $10,000 Goal

Committee Named For Dance, Rally

Bud Trivett, Chairman of the Students' Rink-Auditorium Campaign Committee, has announced the list of committee members for the $10,000 Campaign which is to be conducted at McGill and Dawson, December 2, 3 and 4. The Campaign is being conducted in close conjunction with President Bob McKay of the Red and White Society, in whose hands much of the actual canvassing will rest. R. V. C. Chairman will be Kitty Rainey, who has plans formulated for showing the men students how complete coverage can be best obtained.

Ted Taylor is in charge of Publicity, assisted by Bruce McAuslane and Gill Murray, Posters and Displays; and Gordon Kearns, Cartoons.

Johnny Wight is in charge of Organization with Dick Sharette assisting. Anne Deane is in charge of the Entertainment sub-committee, being primarily interested in the Opening Pop Rally and Dance which is to be held in the Union Ballroom on Thursday evening, November 21.

Arrangements are being made for the McGill Band to be present, a chorus line, the Sigma Chi quartet, and other entertainment features including light refreshments.

The Campaign committee have also taken into consideration the question of holding a Closing Dance in the Union Friday evening, December 6. This suggestion has been made by many students who have been unable to secure

R & W Society Canvasses McGill

President Bob McKay and the committee of the Red & White Society has called upon the members for full support in the Students' Rink-Auditorium Campaign at McGill and Dawson, December 2, 3, and 4.

This verifies the decision arrived at the last Council Meeting when the members seized upon this further opportunity of performing direct service to the University and the student body.

"Each member in the Society will receive a list of approximately 25 names to contact," President McKay informed The Daily. "Insofar as possible these names will be in his or her immediate class and faculty, Division of the student body into these small and workable units will greatly ease the individual burden, facilitating quick and efficient coverage within the three day period of the Campaign."

President McKay also referred to the Pop Rally and Dance which will be held in the Union Ballroom, Thursday, November 28, pointing out that support of this function is a further privilege and duty of the Society. He added that the Committee in charge of this function is expecting a capacity crowd and that the entertainment features promise to make this a highly stimulating and enjoyable evening.

Attractive prizes for the most successful canvassers will shortly be announced.

One hundred percent participation by the Red & White Society, concluded Bob McKay, is a prerequisite to one hundred percent student participation in the Campaign.

Graduates of Dentistry will have their pictures taken on Friday, November 22, at Jacoby Studios.

CANADIAN OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS APPLICATIONS FOR ACCEPTANCE - MCGILL

In order to meet the date set for the sitting of the McGill University Officers Selection Board, it is requested that students with previous training in any of the armed services, who intend to complete application of acceptance, do so by November 25, 1946.

It is again repeated that the age limit of 18 to 22 years does NOT apply to students who are ex (active) service men.

The above date does NOT apply to students at DAWSON for whom the deadline for application is January 15, 1947.

McGill Student Concerts Will Present Carol Brice In Montreal Debut Today

CAROL BRICE, young American Contralto, who will make her Montreal debut tonight at 8.30 in the first of the series of four Concerts, is sponsored by the McGill Students' Subscription Concerts.

Arts-Science Undergrads Plan Dance

The New Year's Dance Committee of the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society held an organizational meeting in the Union on Tuesday, the 19th, at which the groundwork for the dance was completed. The Committee plans to make this revival of a formerly standard event on the campus one of the high spots of this year's social activities.

The dance will be held in the Union, which will be taken over for the evening, from 10 p.m. to 3 a.m. Music will be supplied by the Westerners, popular local orchestra. Ticket sales will be limited, as much as possible, to Arts and Science students, and no more than 300 tickets will be sold. Dress will be optional.

Members of the committee are as follows: Co-chairmen, Dick Denman, Al Mackey; Treasurer, Otto Forchheimer; Catering, Fay Rodriguez; House Chairman, Dick Tremaine; Decorator, Brian MacDonald; Publicity, Paul Belts.

Society Meet Amend Charter At Dawson

As a result of spirited discussion at last night's meeting of the Dawson Students' Society, in Theatre One at 7.00 o'clock, several amendments have been made to their constitution.

This was the second meeting of the Council in two weeks, the first having been dismissed because only forty members, insufficient for a quorum, attended.

The purposes of last night's meeting, presided over by President Gudgeon, were two: to fulfill the conditions of the Society's constitution which require that a general meeting be held within a month of the election of the Council, and to discuss amendments to the constitution which were proposed by the Students' Executive Council of McGill University.

The following amendments were made: Article 4, Section 3 to be changed so that any matter that has to go to the Senate must first go through McGill Students' Executive Council; Article 7 Section 6 to be changed so that any matter coming under it also must first be approved by the McGill Executive Council. After discussion, it was decided not to alter Article 9 Section 2.

New Quarters Given Dawson Post Office

On Monday next, Nov. 25, the Dawson College Post Office will open for business at its new location next to the tailor shop, in quarters formerly occupied by the Dawson office of the McGill Daily.

The change from its present location in the main corridor of the Administration Building was made necessary by the inadequacies of space and facilities there for coping with the requirements of the greatly augmented enrolment at Dawson this year.

This is an attempt on the part of the responsible authorities to minimize the delays and long queues, which to date have formed one of the main points of dissatisfaction on the campus.

The new post office will have three wickets instead of the one, which was used in the old office for everything. Two of these will be for the distribution of general mail, including letters, newspapers, etc., while the third will be reserved for parcels, registered letters and will also be the only one selling stamps.

The hours for the new office will be from immediately after the incoming mail has been sorted until four p.m. from Monday to Friday, and Saturday morning until 12.20. The third wicket will also be closed from 12.30 to 1.30 every day. For the convenience of the students a list of incoming parcels will be posted in the office.

Reports from the Mess Committee and the House Committee were heard, the former concerned with improvements to the Mess Hall and the latter with improvement of telephone service, which is subject to the telephone company's ability to secure materials.

Other matters taken up were the Post Office, Bus Service and Laundry, on which action has been promised.

RVC Reception Will Follow To Meet Star

The young American contralto, Carol Brice, will make her Montreal debut in the Royal Victoria College at 8.30 tonight.

After the concert, students will have an opportunity to meet the artist at a reception to be held in the R.V.C. Common Room, at which Dr. Muriel V. Roscoe will officiate as hostess.

This concert, first of a series of four, is sponsored by the McGill Student Subscription Concerts, of which His Excellency Field Marshal Viscount Alexander, Governor-General of Canada, and Lady Alexander are Honorary Patrons. Tickets will be on sale today in Walter's office in the Arts Building, and at the door tonight.

Miss Brice is the first of her race to win the Naumberg Foundation Award, which entitled her to a debut in New York's Town Hall. She sang with the Boston Symphony Orchestra last year, conducted by Serge Koussevitzky, and has been chosen to appear in this year's Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood, Massachusetts.

Born 27 years ago, Miss Brice is the daughter of a Congregational minister, and a schoolteacher. She grew up in Sedalia, N.C., and graduated from Talladega College, Alabama, with a degree in music. Her brother, Jonathan, is now her accompanist.

Virgil Thomson, music critic of the New York Herald Tribune, wrote of Miss Brice's performance in an early English opera, "The Changeling": "Her scale is of an equality from bottom to top, unequalled by that of any woman singer I have heard on the operatic stage this season." In 1940 she was chosen to sing at the third inauguration of President Roosevelt, and again for Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House.

In addition to her major engagements with the Boston Symphony, Pittsburgh Symphony, Kansas City Symphony and New York Philharmonic Symphony, the singer was the star of her own radio show which was broadcast over a major network, "Carol Brice, Contralto."

Price of subscription tickets for the four concerts is $4.00 for McGill students. The remaining three concerts will present Mario Berini, William Primrose, and Jesus-Maria Sanroma. Similar to tonight's concert, they will be followed by a reception at which refreshments will be served.

Looking Forward

That McGill need not take a back seat to any of its university rivals in the realm of cultural activities may be seen in the program planned by the committee in charge of the Subscription Concerts. The first of this year's series, which is to take place tonight, features a singer whose star has continued ascending since her discovery only a short time ago. Miss Carol Brice has firmly established herself in the hearts of music lovers over the continent, and now McGill students have an excellent opportunity to attend a first-class concert on their own campus.

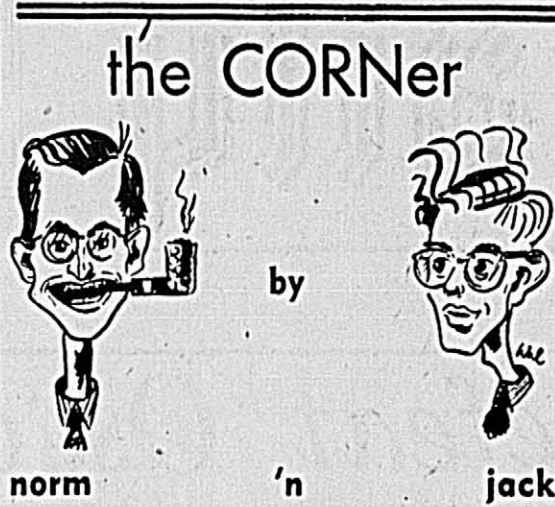

The Concert series is deserving of all the support students can muster. Begun only last year, when it achieved a very high standard, the series also provides students with an opportunity to build up a reputation for McGill in the appreciation of musical entertainment. In this way, we can set the stage for the campus to be the centre of such concerts once the auditorium has been built. That time is not far off, and a hearty response tonight, as well as for the other concerts, will indicate our enthusiasm. — A.K.

A Disgraceful Affair

The unpleasant publicity which has been McGill's as a result of the recent visit of the Dalhousie tennis team should be regarded in a serious light only insofar as it illustrates the unhealthy athletics setup on this campus. The biased and unreasonable accusations hurled at this university by the Dalhousie tennis manager are undoubtedly exaggerations and misrepresentations of fact, untempered by calm logic, and should be considered as such. That the treatment of the visitors was not at all that it should have been, is unquestionable, but the manner in which the match was arranged is the basic wrong in the whole matter.

When Dalhousie first proposed the tournament, the members of the McGill tennis squad refused the challenge because they had discontinued activities for the year, and felt that the contest would serve no useful purpose. At no time did this university lay claim to a Dominion tennis title, simply because no such title exists. McGill had won the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletics Union tournament, had defeated the University of Saskatchewan in an exhibition match, and that was all.

However, the Halifax college was not to be rebuffed by a straightforward refusal. They began to pull strings, exerting all the influence they could muster towards high-pressure McGill into playing them. The Dalhousie Gazette, undergraduate newspaper, claimed that the college had "Colonel J. L. Ralston working on the McGill Board of Governors". Be that as it may, they were successful in their efforts, and the Athletics

THE MORAL THE MERRIER

This story is told about the famous American playwright and co-author of Winged Victory, Moss Hart. It seems that while Hart was vacationing in the Rocky Mountains one summer, he decided to go out on a hike alone. Climbing down one of the steep mountain passes, he stumbled and fell to the ground. This disturbance caused some precariously-situated rocks to come hurtling down from overhead at the post rate form of Hart. Then seemingly, as if by a miracle, the huge boulders passed over him without doing any bodily harm.

The moral, as the unperturbed Hart told it to his unbelieving friends:

"A rolling stone gathers no Moss."

IN MEMORIAM

Dedicated to Georgie, the good-natured cat of the Biology Building.

"Fleet foot in the corridor,
Thou art gone and lost forever."

The finals were drawing nearer. Each lab. period in Zoo. 2 was becoming more and more tense. We had completed the dissection of the cat's muscles, nervous system, and brain. The odour of the embalming fluid was becoming unbearable.

Our only stalwart support came from Georgie. He was such a good natured and lovable cat. He would wander from desk to desk and purr out his good-morning in so sweet a tone, that we would indulge in our dissection with a new and regained enthusiasm. At the end of each lab. period he would see us all off at the door and offer a paw to anyone who desired.

Then came the crisis!

There was a shortage in dissection material, and a proper cat for the necessary work could not be found anywhere.

Suddenly Georgie's attitude changed; some suggested he had become aware of the situation. Georgie visited our lab. no more. He no longer wandered from desk to desk nor did he wait to bid us farewell after the lab. He could be seen wandering aimlessly about the corridors or lying in a lifeless form in some insignificant corner. At moments he even seemed to be viewing us with a suspicious glare. How foolish we were not to realize what he was thinking!

One day Georgie disappeared!

Time passed slowly, and still no signs of Georgie. Our crisis for dissecting material had passed. I recall now, it was a frosty March day when the Biology Building was suddenly filled with cat meows. Georgie was not to be seen among them. We all understood that Georgie had sent them. They were tired and villainous looking cats and our professor suggested that Georgie had advised them to offer their worthless lives for the sake of science.

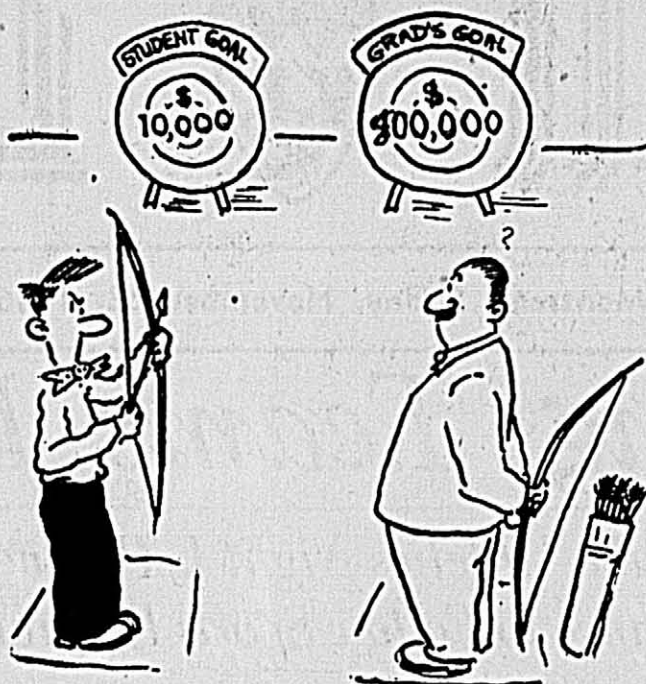

Four years have passed since the Biology Building saw the last of Georgie. He has sent thirty odd cats our way by now, the last five having arrived this afternoon.

By SAM HERLICK.

Office reluctantly wired their acceptance of the challenge.

In other words, the whole matter reduces itself to these fundamental statements. Dalhousie University challenged McGill University to a tennis tournament to determine the mythical "Dominion Intercollegiate Tennis Champions". The Athletics Department and members of the tennis team of McGill University refused to accept this challenge. Pressure was brought to bear on the Athletics Office and tennis team. McGill accepted the challenge.

These are the essential facts. That this train of events should occur on the campus of a college with an unsullied reputation in the world of sports is a disgrace and a discredit to a liberal-thinking university. The tennis team won, but McGill lost prestige on the whole unhappy incident. — N.W.

POLITICAL COMMENT

After so many and so varied comments on the subject of Campus Politics, let's take a look into the broader field of Canadian Politics.

The byelection in Richelieu-Verchères, occasioned by the death of the Hon. P. J. Cardin, is attracting the attention of our political pundits and commentators in much the same way as the byelections in Pontiac, Parkdale and Portage-la-Prairie attracted the comments of practically every literate citizen in the whole of Canada.

With this byelection in mind, it becomes very interesting to study the trend in Canadian politics today in the light of past events. A composite picture might be given in looking back to the early years of the 20th Century, when the Liberals had been in power for a number of years. But already there had been in Quebec many instances symptomatic of a decided reaction against Laurier, the idolized Laurier, and many of his policies.

Young, fiery Bourassa made fine political ammunition of the fact that the Liberals had been in power too long, that Laurier was no more the defender of Quebec provincial rights in Ottawa, that Laurier was kow-towing too often to Imperialist blocs in the rest of Canada, and this to the detriment of French-Canadian ideals and aspirations. It would seem that the Liberals, always assured of French-Canadian support, were now trying to win equal favor with other elements in the country. The reaction was exemplified by the formation of the Nationalist League, composed of young Nationalists, dissatisfied Liberals and frustrated Conservatives.

In the general elections which followed, in 1911, no stranger bedmates could be found than the Francophobic Conservatives and the Anglophobic Nationalists each having different motives in entering into an entente, both on common ground in their unified attempt to defeat the Laurier regime.

From a strictly French-Canadian point of view, this sordid union was expected to pay big dividends. The Nationalists would let the Conservatives form a ministry, but holding the balance of power in the House of Commons, they would be in a position to call the signals, at least to call the play. Further to this, there was the growing sentiment that in such a situation, one can expect more from a political enemy than from a political friend. It all ties in beautifully, it was said.

In the Province of Quebec today, much of this seems to hold true. What is the Union Nationale but a motley group of young Nationalists, dissatisfied Liberals and frustrated Conservatives. What has been the attitude of the Progressive-Conservatives in Compton and of the Union Nationale in Pontiac, if not similar to the Conservative attitude in the Montreal-St. Marie by-election when the indomitable Bourassa defeated the redoubtable Lomer Gouin. And the Drew-Duplessis Axis which is slowly starting to revolve is fondly reminiscent of the Monk-Bourassa Axis of some thirty years ago.

On this basis, the Richelieu-Verchères by-election and the next general election should be a good show.

MARCEL JOYAL, LAW II.

LETTER FORUM

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:

Having read the editorial in Tuesday's "Daily" I wish to heartily congratulate the writer, Mr. A.K. I am sure that every McGill student will concur with his suggestions for an immediate solution to the Athletic problem. As a possible solution to this I would present the instigation of the following points:

(1) That the Students' Athletic Council of Twelve call a general meeting open to all McGill Undergraduates, to air and explain the athletic set-up. As the same time, suggestions from the floor might follow. I would propose that this meeting be called before Christmas, while the football question is still acute.

(2) That at least two meetings like the above be held every term.

(3) That the "Big Twelve" then act upon these, as well as their own suggestions, at their next meeting.

(4) And finally, that the results of (3) above be put at the disposal of the "Daily" Editors, so that every McGill student may know exactly what is going on.

We cannot blame the Council members for the arranging of sporting schedules, tournaments, etc., must be a monstrous task. Thus, the students as a whole have to take more interest in the problem. With many suggestions and far more ideas to work with, I am sure the present S.A.C.'s physical exigencies will be much more efficiently handled.

Yours truly,
F. BUSSELL.

Dawson College,
Monday, Nov. 18.

Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,—
The article that appeared in the Nov. 18 issue of The Daily on the intramural soccer matches played between McGill teams contains certain factual errors. The two McGill teams have now played each other four times, not three; the first game was not a draw, but was won by the team from Dawson College; and, as the results to date will show, two of the games have been won by the team representing Dawson College and two have been drawn. In view of the last mentioned facts, the keenness of the team representing the Montreal campus could, perhaps, have been better expressed in The Daily than by the statement, "The McGill soccerites are gunning for their second victory and their next meeting might be the game that will put the local hopefuls into the win column again."

Too much space already seems to have been devoted in The Daily to the petty antagonism which is reported to exist between the students attending Dawson College and those attending the University in Montreal, and there is therefore no intention in the foregoing criticism of The Daily's article of drawing any invidious comparison between the proficiency of the two university teams. As the article stated, the games played have always been keenly contested and, that being so, surely no beneficial ends are served in misquoting the facts so that any credit due is falsely implied. Such reporting is all the more regrettable because the matches played involved teams of the same university and not, as might be imagined from the headline and the general tenor of the article, of two separate academic institutions.

"ARIADNE"

No less than a year and a half was devoted to rehearsing Richard Strauss' Ariadne by the New York City Opera Company before the first performance of the Viennese opera was given at the New York City Centre last October. Ariadne, described as the most novel operatic production seen in New York in many years, is being brought to His Majesty's Theatre on Wednesday, December 4, with the entire New York cast as a presentation of the Montreal Festivals.

Laszlo Halasz, the artistic director, found himself on the night of October 10, with a hit on his hands. A capacity house gave him and his singers and instrumentalists a tremendous ovation. There were no less than 28 curtain calls.

What, critics report, charmed the New Yorkers was the exquisite lightness of the score, the beauty of the music which contains some of Strauss' finest melodies, the unique orchestration scored for 37 instruments, the novelty of the action and the excellence of the production. Ariadne calls for 13 singers who must be expert actors as well as vocalists.

Montreal is to be the only city, however, to see Ariadne outside New York. According to Montreal Festivals, which gave the Canadian premieres of Pelléas and Mélisande and Tristan and Isolde, it will be their most novel presentation to date. It is also stressed that the appeal of Ariadne is as much to lovers of the theatre as to lovers of music.

CHAMBER MUSIC

Schumann's Piano Quintet, featuring the American pianist, William Masselos, will be the principal item to be performed by the McGill String Quartet, tonight, in the Prince of Wales Salon, Windsor Hotel at 9.00. This is the second concert in the Chamber Music Series presented by the Montreal Festivals. The balance of the program will consist of "The Seven Last Words of Christ" by Haydn and "Quartet No. 1" by the contemporary English composer, Arnold Bax.

Tickets are available at Room 14, Windsor Hotel, B. 2238, Ma 4447, or at the door of the Salon tonight.

You owe it to yourself to understand fully the benefits of the different types of insurance provided by The Mutual Life of Canada.

Many 1945-46 Men Back for McGill

McGill's championship hockeyists travel to Shawinigan Falls tomorrow for their 1946-47 unveiling. Their opponents will be the Shawinigan Falls Cataracts of the Q.S.H.L., a team which began the Senior Season this year by defeating the Montreal Royals. The Redmen are starting the season against some tough opposition, and will have their hands full to cop this verdict. With Colour in goals, the Cataracts have a heavy set of defence, and boast a set of fast, light forwards.

GELENEAU ET AL

To oppose the home squad, coach Campbell will have Gelineau in goal, one of the best goalers in the league last season; defencemen Broderick, "Goose" Gosselin, and Doug Heron of last year's squad, as well as two new additions. The Dawson Line of O'Connor-Porteous-Pelton, which was the main McGill attacking unit against Varsity last year will be completely missing tomorrow — Porteous and Pelton having forsaken McGill for pro hockey, and O'Connor recovering from the flu, and out until new year.

The other main forward line of George and Tommy Hale, and Reg Sinclair will be intact, and a number of new forwards will be utilized to fill the remaining positions.

OVER LIMIT

Although Intercollegiate regulations states that each team may carry only 11 men, Coach Campbell will probably carry many more than this number to decide finally what his squad will be against the "boys from the hill" of the U. of M. in the Intercollegiate Opener on December 7.

The team will stage a final practice at the Forum at 5 this afternoon, and will entrain for Shawinigan Falls at 1:30 tomorrow.

THE DALHOUSIE INCIDENT

Dalhousie Says.

(The following letter appeared in the Dalhousie Gazette and presents Dalhousie's charge of mistreatment in Montreal.)

The President, Dalhousie Amateur Athletic Club,

Dear Sir,

In view of the unfortunate chain of events which marked the visit of the Dalhousie Tennis team to McGill University it seems highly desirable that a complete report should be presented to the D.A.A.C. On arrival at Montreal the team was received by Major Forbes, McGill Athletic Director, in his office. He first of all explained for our benefit the nature of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union, the sixty-year-old league of universities with whom McGill plays most of its intercollegiate sports. It was in stressing the self-sufficiency of this arrangement that he referred to Dalhousie as being outside Canada and our visiting tennis team as foreigners visiting a foreign country. In no uncertain manner he assured us that McGill considered our present visit and any future visits as neither necessary nor desirable.

CLUB IS SNOBBISH

He referred to the Montreal Indoor Tennis Club as being "exclusive and snobbish," so that playing of the matches, there was a great concession on their part and, having requested this concession, he would not ask any more favors of them in order to obtain practice facilities for us. As only two McGill students were members of the club and permitted to have only one guest once, he could offer no solution in this direction. Finally he emphatically stated that these were the only indoor courts in Montreal. This left us with one solitary outdoor court at McGill—but it rained every day.

We learned subsequently that 1. The Montreal Indoor Tennis Club is not the only indoor club in Montreal.

2. There are more than two McGill students who are club members and they are not limited to taking one guest once. One student informed us, too late, that he was an intermediate member and could have taken us to the club on Friday morning and until three o'clock Friday afternoon. It was in the presence of this student and several other McGill students that Major Forbes reassured something already said: "We didn't want you fellows to come here in the first place, we don't want you now and we are not interested in having you at any future time—nor any other

Forbes Says

In an official statement released to The Daily last night, Major D. S. Forbes, McGill's Athletic Manager, presented his account of the events transpiring up to and during the visit of the Dalhousie University tennis team on the week-end preceding November 11. His central argument pointed out that the Maritimers were labouring under a misapprehension when they sent their challenge to the McGill team for the "Dominion Intercollegiate Tennis Title", to which, according to Major Forbes, McGill had never laid claim.

"FOREIGNERS"

In addition, he pointed out that it was the Dalhousie team themselves who first used the term "foreigners", the employment of which has caused such a furore in the Maritime University. Following is the complete text of his statement: "The C.I.A.U. Tennis Championship is a closed championship except for four colleges — McGill, Queen's, Varsity and U. of M. If any other college in our own C.I.A.U. (e.g., Western) wanted to play, they would be unable to do so without a change in the constitution. Therefore, the winners are not Dominion Champions and we make no claim to the non-existent Dominion Intercollegiate title.

The C.I.A.U. specifically states that no team can enter National Playoffs except with permission of the Board of Reference. We have not been permitted to go into National Championships for many years before the War and we don't conduct them. Therefore, there was no vacancy for any other college to play in the tournament which was not a National Championship anyway.

On November 2, a letter was received from the President of the Maritime Intercollegiate Athletic Association protesting against the McGill claim to the Eastern Canadian Intercollegiate championships, a claim we never made. When Dalhousie came here, they asked the reason for not being invited and if they were considered as "foreigners". I replied jocularly "The shoe is on the other foot this time. When I was in the Maritimes, they always spoke of 'going up to Canada' as if it were another country."

INDOOR COURTS

It is considered that the last possible date for playing tennis in Montreal is October 25th and our

Redmen Victorious In Soccer Match By Close 1-0 Count

By TONY BLACKWOOD

Last night the McGill soccer team went a-wooing under the lights at Molson Stadium, and this time the object of their affections, Lady Luck herself, came through with a winner. The game was played against a select group who choose to call themselves the All Stars, and was a thriller from start to finish.

CUP Chooses All-star Team; Bridel Picked

The Canadian University Press also went out on the proverbial limb this week, when the sports editors of the undergraduate newspapers selected an Intercollegiate All-Star team. With the singular exception of Don MacFarlane, the backfield named was the same as that of the CP Dream Team. Hayes, Ballantyne, Bob MacFarlane, and Curtis were all chosen in the university poll. Hayes and Curtis at halfback, MacFarlane at fullback and Ballantyne at quarter. The other position behind the line is very much a matter of debate. Billy Meyers, the Varsity scabback, and two Queens backs, Al Lenard and Dave Rozumniak were all tied for the flying wing position.

MARKED DIFFERENCES

The line shows many marked differences in opinion between the two dream squads. Doug Cook got the nod from both boards of experts as the outstanding center likewise Rudy Grass for the inside spot. The other inside berth was tied for by two Mustangs, McLean and Quinlyn, and a Redman, Huza. The CUP middles are not mentioned by the CP. Clark, one of the outstanding defensive middles in the league, and Tommy Bridel, McGill's plunging middle were named for that position. It is noted that Bridel won out over Brian Littles who received CUP plaudits. The ends picked are Currie and Turnbull.

Of note are other All-Star nominations mentioned. The best display of sportsmanship of the year: The Mustangs bench standing up and cheering Murray Hayes as he came off the field. Coach of the year: John Metras.

Water Poloists Tackle Queens Saturday P.M.

The McGill Water Polo team has its first intercollegiate game on Saturday when they tackle Queens University in an exhibition tilt. The match will be played at three o'clock in the 60 foot MAAA pool.

Last year the Redmen won the intercollegiate championship and will have most of those same stars in the water on Saturday. McGill's history in Water Polo is an outstanding one. The game when first introduced in Canada, was started in Montreal and the best players in the game to-day are still Montrealers. Starting in 1900 McGill won 13 intercollegiate championships in a row. During this period the Redmen took on and defeated almost every team they played from the United States. McGill's seniority in Water Polo has continued through the years and in 1946 after 28 years of intercollegiate play she has won the championship on all but 6 occasions. This year the team is hoping to extend this superb record.

JIMMY ROSE

McGill is very fortunate to have Jimmy Rose, one of the most outstanding coaches in Canada. Jim will be on hand tomorrow to handle the team, but will not announce the lineup for the game until tonight.

There will be a final practice at 5 o'clock this afternoon for both teams and an election of captains will be held.

ATTENTION MEN FENCERS

The first formal practice of the Men's Fencing Club will take place this Saturday, Nov. 23, at 2:30 in the B.W. & F. room of the Gym. The club had close to 50 members last year, and as our equipment has arrived, we intend to operate on a larger scale than ever this year. All experienced fencers and beginners are invited to attend. Remember, we have the Intercollegiate, Provincial and Federal tournaments ahead of us, so come out and support the club.

Despite the turmoil amid campus sports circles, Softball, like Old Man River, just keeps on rolling along the merry way. The schedule is rapidly coming to a close, and a hard-fought play-off is in the offing.

Two tilts were played last night at the Currie Gym, with Phys. Ed. 3, a sure-fire contender for the play-offs, waltzed over Comm. 2 to the tune of 16-1. Eng. added spice to the proceedings as they set Med. 2 back on their collective heels on a 16-6 count.

WELL FITCHED

"In the first match, Davidson pitched for the winners limiting the Purvis Hall squad to a handful of hits, while "Lamb's Labs" walloped the Commerce offerings at will. Mingle, Henniger and Henderson led the Flizzed attack with the hickory sticks.

In the second tilt, Read limited the Sawbones to 7 hits, whilst Tamaro, Gagnon and Babin paced the Plumbers' attack at bat.

CONFUSION

This state of confusion and lack of courtesy continued almost to the end. Although the wire accepting our challenge stated that games were to start at 11 a.m. on the 11th of November, and although Bajor Forbes told us that the courts were ours until 4 p.m. and longer if necessary, this did not prove to be the case. Jack Spencer, the tennis manager, told us on arrival that the games would begin at 10 a.m. Even then, as Major Forbes suggested, it might have been possible for us to have practised for an hour or more before the matches began. At 8 a.m. on Monday, however, Spencer telephoned us that the games were to start at 9 a.m. and finish at 3 p.m.

With our last hope for practice removed, we counted heavily on being able to play our doubles matches first so that two men could accustom themselves to the courts while risking only one match instead of two. McGill, however, had informed their players that the singles games would be played first, and only their first and second players were present, the others having been instructed to come along later. I could not help pointing out that the same consideration would have been appreciated by the Dal team. At this point Jim Duff, McGill's number one player, sprang into action and cooperated to the extent that all McGill players were soon notified and on hand to play the games as we had suggested. Unfortunately, Blair Dunlop had begun his single with Jack Spencer before this arrangement was completed.

STUDENTS INDIGNANT
The Dal team is unanimous in its feeling that our reception and treatment at the hands of a few individuals cannot be taken as representing the attitude of McGill students in general. On the contrary, the vehemently expressed opinions of many students assured us that they were just as indignant as we were.

On behalf of the Dal team, I should like to thank every individual who tried to assist us in any way, and we are especially appreciative of the action of the member of the McGill Athletic Union who apologized for the lack of consideration and courtesy on the part of those supposed to organize the tournament.

Yours very truly,
IAN RUSTED,
Dalhousie Tennis Manager.

schedule, drawn up for ten years in advance schedules no games after this date. Even this is so late that we had to give up playing in Kingston because of no indoor courts. By courtesy of the Montreal and Toronto Tennis Clubs who have indoor courts, we have had emergency shelter in case of rain, a very gracious and not to be abused gesture on part of a private club.

McGill had not proven to be winners on the second day of the Inter-collegiate tournament when a request came in from Saskatchewan for a tournament with the winner. Both U. of M. and McGill reluctantly agreed to play the following Saturday as they had already lost considerable time from their studies and playing did not show signs of improving.

Saskatchewan could not arrive until Sunday as events transpired so that the match was postponed until Monday. After the Saskatchewan exhibition was completed, on October 30 we received a challenge from Dalhousie for the "Dominion Intercollegiate Tennis Championship". Two hours after receipt of the telegram and after a consultation with the players we wired that we would be unable to accept the challenge since our club had closed. Two prominent Maritimers now residing in Montreal asked if we could reconsider the decision not to play. The players were re-approached and very reluctantly consented. We then approached a high official of the Indoor Tennis Club with apologies for again imposing upon their generosity and they granted us playing facilities only for November 11th. Practice hours were unavailable because the Club was under-staffed. Accordingly on November 6, we accepted the challenge under C.I.A.U. regulations.

TELEGRAM

On November 7th, Dalhousie wired "Leaving by plane this afternoon. Hoping for practice before games begin." In actual fact, our own team had no practice time on the indoor courts except for one player who was a member of the club and invited two Dalhousie men as his guests. Outdoor courts were impossible.

On November 11th, David Doig, President of their Amateur Athletic Club wrote after receiving the news that the Dalhousie team had lost 7-0, "I would like to thank you for willingness to co-operate in accepting our challenge in the very inconvenient circumstances. . . . It was most decent of McGill to agree to play and we are grateful for the chance."

I have great respect for Dalhousie and the Maritimers where I have many friends and sincerely regret that the incident occurred. I hope that they come again but earlier in the season."

UNDER THE SINK

THE COLUMN'S CREED

Let there be no scoffers. Let not those who are not in the chosen circle of plumbers, think that the engineers are solely occupied with consuming their 40 glasses of amber fluid. Let all McGill students know the true worth of the monkey-wrench men and their society. To this end the "Sink" is dedicated.

vote as opposed to the previous practice which required the presence of the member at two thirds of the meetings.

The results of the election of the new executive are: Ted Blockley, President; A. Forget, 1st Vice-President by acclamation; E. Colas, 2nd Vice-President; J. Chipman, Corresponding Secretary; F. Welter, Recording Secretary; R. Allen, Social Secretary; G. Roy, Treasurer by acclamation; L. Davicho, Publicity Director.

Five p.m., next Thursday was set as the tentative time for the next meeting of the club.

tickets for the Junior Prom. Provided that the necessary authorization can be secured, final decision would largely depend upon how much interest is evident and the committee is very anxious to hear Campus opinion on the subject.

Members of the committee attended the meeting of the Dawson Students' Society at St. Johns last night and were assured by Chairman Gudgeon that an active and vigorous effort may be looked for from Dawson.

The deciding point brought out by McGill was that even in many of the professions there were many examples of disguised closed shops, which in their way were a very bad thing for society. The Law Society was cited as an example of this type of closed shop.

Ward of the Engineering Undergraduate Society called the first general meeting of the E.U.S. for last Thursday evening. It was announced in The Daily on both Monday and Thursday mornings and yet because only 15 plumbers turned up the meeting had to be cancelled.

All engineers point with pride to the activity and enterprise shown by their society and yet they cannot be called true members of the E.U.S. If they have not enough interest to attend the meetings. So, fellow slide-rulers, let's get behind the E.U.S. and maintain its good reputation.

ENGINEERS' FALL INFORMAL

Full details of the annual Fall Dance appears on the front page. Plumbers, although everybody has been invited, this is your affair so call up the girl friend and waltz up to the gym to sway to the soothing strains of the "Montreal Esports".

RUDDY RHETORIC

There are those who claim that Engineers excel only at logarithms, integral and differential calculus, etc. The "Sink" demurs. Our men excel at the noble art of public speaking and have emerged victors in the two debates staged so far. Last Wednesday in the Ballroom, our debaters beat the lawyers at their own game by successfully upholding the affirmative side of the resolution "That the Student's Executive Council was correct in banning non-union orchestras from campus functions." The winners invaded the inner sanctum of union headquarters to get the correct background, and their superlative logic won the approval of the judges.

Ed Gauthier's Engineering Debating Society sponsored the first inter-departmental contest last Thursday noon. Civils, Tank Townsend and John Woodcock, defeated Architects, Ted Baker and Manny Lazarovitch, by proving to the satisfaction of the judges there is no need for a separate field of architecture. When the architects cited the Engineering Building as an example of their profession's work, the plumbers pounced on them. Those of us who continually lose our bearings in its meandering corridors will agree that an engineer could not have done worse.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

The Social Committee under the chairmanship of John Knecht has been doing a noble job. The open house staged a week ago was attended by a very good percentage of 2nd year men who claimed to have had a very good evening.

The Fall Informal, last Friday, provided plumbers with the chance of meeting their cohorts from other years and their gals.

DAWSON DEPARTMENT

Thornton Bendon (just call me Elmer) Lounsbury is the "Sink's" representative at Dawson. Any contributions will gladly be received by him and passed along to Kilgroy.

ATHLETIC AWARDS

You are hereby informed that all engineers are eligible for Big "E's". These are awarded on a point basis to those who compete in any kind of sport. Compilation of points is in the capable hands of Georgie Schneider. So fellows earn yourself an E by competing in intermural sport.
